

The Coyote at Vandenberg SFB

Most of what you have learned about coyotes may be because of this guy...

But there's a LOT more to know! Coyotes are members of the dog family (Canidae) and they've probably been in North America for about 2 million years!

Did you know?

- Coyotes are active during day and night
- Opportunistic diet
- Can live for up to 14 years and range between 20-50lbs
- Vital to the ecosystem by regulating rodent populations
- Pets, squirrels, and garbage attract coyotes to human-inhabited areas

Coyotes are fearful of humans by nature until they are given access to human food and garbage. The result may be deadly conflicts with pets, or serious injuries to small children.

Identification

- Bushy tail, often black-tipped
- Smaller than a Labrador Retriever
- Long ears, pointed tips
- Narrow snout

What YOU Can Do: Keep it inside!

Reduce the amount of food available to them by keeping garbage in tightly closed containers.

- Take your garbage out to the street on "pick-up morning," not the night before
- Feed your pets indoors
- Do not leave pets or small children outside unattended
- Never intentionally feed a coyote!

Solutions

Preventing coyotes from engaging with human spaces will be the best practice.

- Relocating a problem coyote is not an option because it moves the problem to someone else's neighborhood.
- Hunting and trapping increases coyote populations

If you encounter a coyote, make loud noises and/or throw rocks in the animal's direction.

Notify Security Forces, Fish and Game (30 SFS/S3SW) of any problem animals (but just seeing a coyote doesn't mean it's a threat - they can be active 24/7/365). Security Forces can be reached at (805) 606-6804 or (805) 606-3911.

Natural Resources Managers with 30CES/CEI are available to educate and advise VSFB residents about coyotes and conflict prevention (and other wildlife). Call (805) 606-4198 or (805) 605-8399.

Just because a coyote is out in daylight, don't assume it's rabid, aggressive or dangerous... (it's probably just happy to be alive!)
